The Tariff Bill end the House committees are the principal subjects of discussion here now. The Republican members of the Finance Committee have flaished their consideration of the bill, and are anxious to get it into the Senate as soon as possible. They know that the longer the hill is kept off the stat-ute books the longer prosperity will be delayed, and their policy is evidently go ing to be to hold the bill back as much as possible in the Senate in the hope that the people of the country may become dissat-isfied with the delay of promised prosper to the manufacturer treatment of the manufacturer treatment of the distribution.
